THE DIVERSITY OF LIFE IN OUR OCEAN AND GREAT LAKES IS ASTOUNDING.

From the tiniest plankton to the largest whale, marine species form complex systems that work in a delicate balance with one another. Our planet faces a major crisis. As many as one million species are at risk of extinction unless we come together to address global threats from climate change, overfishing, habitat loss, and pollution.

Capitol Hill Ocean Week offers unique opportunities to interact with peers and opinion leaders to advance conservation and public policy goals for our ocean and Great Lakes. Speakers, invited guests, and attendees include Members of Congress and staff, Administration officials, local and state government representatives, business executives, military officials, academic luminaries, and leaders in the nonprofit sector.
